TWO KILLED IN ROCK FALL AT 16 TO 1 MINE

A huge slab of rock fell in the 16 to 1 mine Saturday morning, killing two men instantly and injuring a third. The tragic accident occurred at the 2200-foot level in the historic old mine at Alleghany, 24 miles northeast of Nevada City.

The dead are Samuel Joseph Frost, 47, and Clarence Deal, 40, both of Alleghany. Oliver Whitmore, who was working shoulder to shoulder with Deal was knocked about 12 feet down the tunnel by the concussion but escaped injury.

The three men were timbering at the 2200 foot level and Deal had sat down to relight his carbide lamp when the accident occurred.

The rock, measuring four feet thick, 10 feet wide and 20 feet long, fell at 11 a.m.

Deal's body was removed from the mine about 4:30 p.m. and Frost's body was taken out about 5 p.m.

Funeral services for Deal were held Wednesday at the chapel of Holmes Funeral Home, Nevada City, with graveside services in Alleghany in the afternoon. Rev. Max L. Christensen, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, here, officiated.

Deal was born May 22, 1909, at Camptonville. He had worked as a logger and miner most of his life. Surviving are his wife, Lucille; four sons, Clarence Jr., Donald, Keith asd Jack; mother, Mrs. Morse, Nevada City; sisters, Mrs. Al Williams, Nevada City; Mrs. Hazel Vance and Mrs. Lydia Roy, Georgetown; and Mrs. Anna Havens, Oceanside; brothers, Jake and Fred, Alleghany; Harry, Brooks; Roy, San Rafael, and Lester, Greenville.

Last rites for Frost were conducted yesterday afternoon at Holmes Funeral Home. Rev. Donald A. Getty, miniser of Methodist church, Grass Valley, conducting services. Cremation followed at Sierra View crematory, Marysville.

Frost is a native of Goshen, Ark., and had worked as a well driller for Standard Oil company before coming to Alleghany a year ago.

Surviving are his wife, Mildred, and son, Donn, both of Van Nuys; sisters, Miss Erin Frost, Mrs. Sam Oliphant, Mrs. Mildred Roberts, Mrs. Glen Stokenberry, all of Fayetteville, Ark.; Mrs. Ray Jones, Visalia; brothers, Jack, Ventura; and Richard, LaHabra.

MARCH OF DIMES SHOW AND DANCE AT ELKS HALL TONIGHT

Preparations are complete for March of Dimes show and dance tonight at the Elks lodge. The benefit program is being given by the Nevada City Lions club.

The dance is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock. The show is in charge of Frank Stewart who will also serve as master of ceremonies.

Stewart said the show will feature songs, skits and novelty selections and included in the cast will be Chet Murchell, the Peterson trio, DeVeere Mautino, George Hansen, Lucy Murchell, Howard Jones, Dorothy Jones Bill Tobiassen, Bernice Gibson, Mel Davis and Stewart.

Jerry Austin, Norman Foote and the Volunteers will furnish music for the dance.

Sandwiches, doughnuts and refreshments are to be served.

TRACTION CONDUCTOR MAKES FINAL TRIP

Charles Chappell, 62, conductor on Nevada City-Grass Valley traction line when it made its final run, died Wednesday at the county hospital.

Born in Gold Flat, he lived here all his life except for a short time with Standard Oil in Arizona.

The body is at Myers Grass Valley mortuary awaiting arrival of a surviving sister, Mrs. Grace Schach from San Francisco.

Merchants to Present Dollar Days Feb. 17-18

Dollar Days are here again!

For the first time since last spring Nevada City merchants will present Dollar Day specials next Friday and Saturday, February 17 and 18.

A resolution was adopted by the board of directors of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce at the regular meeting in the city hall Tuesday night setting the time of the February Dollar Days.

In order to acquaint all residents of Nevada City and surrounding area with special merchandising offers for the two days, The Nugget will be mailed to all postoffice boxholders for the edition of Friday, February 17.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY DECISION MAY WAIT FOR NEXT CONGRESS

Latest word from Washington indicates designation of a site for the proposed air force academy will probably await election of a new congress, with resultant delay of at least a year.

Camp Beale and 194 other sites in 34 states have placed applications as locations for the academy.

Carl Vinson, chairman of the house armed services committee, said hearings will be held but no actual legislation will be considered until a selection board has inspected all 195 sites.

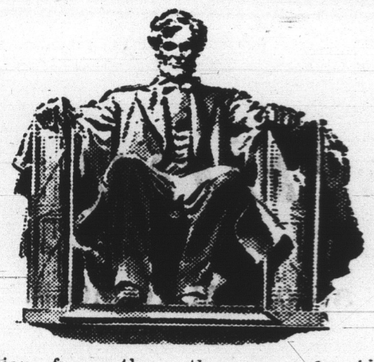

The air force estimates it will need 9,000 acres for the academy, with estimated costs ranging from $171,000,000 to $300,000,000.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN CARRIED NEVADA CITY AND COUNTY IN 1860 AND 1864 ELECTIONS; MEMORIAL OBSEQUIES HERE CLOSED TOWN SEVERAL DAYS

Nevada county, probably more so than any other county in the U. S., with the exception of his home counties in Illinois, affected the career of Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of the U. S.

The gold that poured from Nevada county, the leading productive county of the Civil war era, did as much to turn the tide of war toward Union victory as the marching feet of Sherman's men, the galloping hooves of Sheridan's cavalry, or the dogged determination of Grant.

Abraham Lincoln profoundly affected the destiny of Nevada county the day he stroked his signature to the document that resulted in the construction of the Central Pacific railway across the high Sierras through Emigrant Gap.

Apparently Abraham Lincoln was unknown in Nevada county until Aaron A. Sargent founded the Republican party in the county and traveled to Chicago as delegate to the convention that nominated the man from Illinois as its party's candidate for the presidency. Sargent's vote at the convenion was for Seward but following the nomination he became one of Lincoln's staunchest supporters.

In its salutary edition the Nevada Transcript of Sept. 6, 1860, declared "it matters not who is to be elected and poo-poohed the idea that 'Honest Abe' Lincoln's election would result in separation from the union." The Transcript declared threat of secession had been a trick of southern states for over thirty years.

The Transcript of 1860 commented on the lack of mud-slinging in the presidential campaign of the four candidates, John C. Breckenridge, Democrat, Kentucky; Stephen A. Douglas, National Democrat, Illinois; Bell, and Lincoln. The editor, apparently a staunch supporter of Andrew Jackson, recalled the muck-raking of the general's three campaigns in which Jackson was accused of committing every crime in the book.

California had four electoral votes out of 303 and Charles A. Tuttle, Auburn, represented this district.

Lincoln easily carried Nevada City and Nevada county in both the 1860 and 1864 contests. Grass Valley became a stronghold of Copperheads and in 1864 was the only district in the county to turn thumbs down on the president. In Allison ranch the vote was 328 for McClellan and 0 for Lincoln. Such a vote only happens either in a dictated vote or a stuffed ballot box.

Nevada county vote in 1860 was Lincoln, 2,459; Breckenridge, 1,562; Douglas, 2,303; Bell, 383. In 1864 the county gave Lincoln 2,777 votes and McClellan 1,776.

In 1864 Nevada City voted for Lincoln 842 to 132 for McClellan. In 1860 with the results from Vanderleith's precinct never published, Lincoln polled 641; Breckenridge, 530; Douglas, 238; Bell, 82.

The area was divided into three precincts:

Nevada precinct, polling place at courthouse. T. T. Davenport, inspector; Henry McCarty and A. W. Potter, judges.

Blue Tent: at Cooper's Store. F. G. Armour, inspector; J. W. Coleman and Charles Dodd, judges.

Vanderleith's, at Vanderleith's. E. W. Hollerman, inspector; Thomas Alexander and William Lytle, judges.

Following the election the burning topic of the time in the county, as in the nation, turned to secession and its probability.

The isolation of California and Oregon stirred up proposals of a Palific republic formed from California, Oregon, Washington territory, and parts of Utah and New Mexico territories.

Lincoln's nephew was editor of the Springfield, Ill., Journal and commented "Dissension by armed force is treason and treason must and will be put down at all hazards." Lincoln's statements of his proposed course of action caused the Transcript editor to remark, "It's 10 to 1 Lincoln will not remain a favorite with the party that made him president. Politicians, like theologians, have no charity for a man who dares to think for himself."

All eastern news came via pony express in 1860 and the Transcript got fresh news about once a week and then hashed and rehashed it until the next pony brought more news. As a result the report of the inauguration was nine days old in the Nevada City paper. Editor Allen commented, "For President Lincoln we entertain no affection found on partisanship, but we humbly think he is entitled to justice. The inaugural address is not warlike."

As the spring of 1861 advanced it was apparent that civil war was inevitable and following Lincoln's call to arms a mass union meeting was held in the theatre May 1 with Niles Searls presiding, assisted by A. A. Sargent. The group pledged loyalty to the federal government and promised the aid of every one of the 16,454 inhabitants of the county.

As the war progressed its weary course Nevada City burned down and lost population to the Washoe territory, although as peace finally arrived the Transcript noted many Washoe followers were returning here.

Nevada City was having its own reconstruction in the spring of 1865 recovering from the devastating fire of November, 1863. The theatre was nearing completion and became the scene of the sad observances that were to come.

News of the end of the war reached Nevada City April 10, 1865, and the city started a celebration that lasted five days. A subscription for 100 cannon was started to which even Copperheads gave liberally. Bells rang continuously.

The Sunday morning Transcript of April 16, 1865, carried inverted column rules and revealed the assassination of the president. At the time of publication word of actual death had not arrived but the mortal head wound was described as "above the temporal bone and that brains were oozing out." Word of death was received Sunday after press time and that evening services were held in the Methodist church with Rev. D. A. Drydan and Sargent speaking. Rev. R. F. Putnam of the Episcopal church also delivered a eulogy at the Baptist church.

News of the assassination brought an abrupt end to the celebration of war's end for three days business was virtually at a standstill as all business houses and saloons closed.

Concurrent with the funeral in Illinois Nevada City, Grass Valley and Red Dog conducted memorial services for Lincoln on Wednesday.

The Transcript called the assassination the result of dementia, declaring no san friend of the south would have done the deed.

All loyal men of Nevada City received the announcement with deepest sorrow and bitter denunciation of the villains. One man, a known sympathizer with the south, remarked he was "glad thta Lincoln was dead." A crowd of excited persons soon collected around him and there was indication of violence to be done until cooler heads prevailed. The district attorney and assessor of "Colusi" county were arrested for publicly expressing gratification of the death of Lincoln.

All public buildings, business houses and residences were in mourning the day of the funeral procession and cannon were fired every half hour.

Judge T. B. McFarland was named chief marshall for the procession and Major N. W. Knowlton and C. K. Farquhar were his aides.

The procession formed at Pine and Broad, and moved down Broad, up Main and Commercial to Pine, to Broad and to the theatre.

The official mourning badge was of white and black ribbons, each one inch wide and 10 inches long, tied into buttonhole of right lapel.

Thousands of citizens marched in the procession to the funeral dirge of Carter's band.

The marshall and his aides led the procession, followed by the Bridgeport Union Guard of 40 men, commanded by Captain Coffey; Nevada Light Guard of 67 men, Capt. J. A. Lancaster commanding; the hearse drawn by four white horses; A. A. Sargent, J. N. Turner, James Whartenby, A. W. Potter, T. P. Hawley, W. H. Sears, Charles Kent and J. Worrell, pallbearers; Masons, marshalled by J. M. Levey; Odd Fellows, marshalled by J. Clark; Hebrew Benevolent Society, marshalled by A. Baruh; Fire Department, W. H. Davidson, chief engineer; Hydraulic Hose Company of San Juan; Protection Hook and Ladder Company; Pennsylvania Engine Company; Nevada Hose Company; Public Schools directed by F. Power; French Mill Co. under Mr. Charannot with a fine flag draped in mourning carried by Mr. Gay, who served three years in the Army of the Potomac; citizens of the city led by T. T. Davenport, with the colored people of the city bringing up the rear.

8.52 INCH RAINFALL BRINGS SEASON TOTAL UP TO 34.61 INCHES

A three-day rain storm which started Friday added 8.52 inches of moisture to the season's total in Nevada City, bringing the record up to 34.61 since July, according to Fred Bush, weather observer.

When the rain started Friday there was eleven inches of snow on the ground but the measure was reduced to two inches by Monday with only a few patches left in sheltered spots today. The rain was followed by heavy frost and frozen ground each morning since Monday.

Bush's record for the week:

	Max.	Min.	Rain
February 3	48	16
February 4	48	33	3.10
February 5	46	41	3.22
February 6	49	40	2.20

SEWAGE ORDINANCE AND ELECTION DETAILS EXPECTED THURSDAY

Nevada City council will meet Thursday evening in adjourned session at city hall at which time ordinance providing for $155,000 sewage disposal plant and fire department equipment bond issue is expected to be adopted. City Clerk George H. Calanan said polling places and election boards will probably be established at the meeting.

A resolution of necessity of the proposed sewage disposal plant was adopted at last meeting of the council Thursday, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Swain, operators of the Nevada City airport, asked the city to take back the airport and release their contract. They were represented by Frank G. Finnegan, local attorney.

They asked appraisal and reimbursement of improvements at the airport. Finnegan told the council Swain does not believe the airport can be placed on a paying basis.

The council took no action.

Lambert Almquist, represented by Crofford Bridges, was granted a license to use the yards of the Nevada County Lumber company as a lumber storage and drying yard.

W. H. Meuron, illuminating engineer for Pacific Gas and Electric company, appeared before the council and presented a plan for relighting the city. The city pays $252.28 per month for street lighting now, according to Meuron. Under the proposed plan he said the bill would run about $643.47 per month. Installation and maintenance would be at no cost to the city.

Meuron also presented a plan for lighting the city athletic field at Pioneer park. He estimated cost of material at $7,000.

The council approved purchase of track and wheels for door to the city garage adjacent to city hall.

$25,000 LIBEL TRIAL EXPECTED TO GO TO JURY THIS AFTERNOON

The week-long $25,000 libel trial in which Dud G. Poyner, Bakersfield Baptist minister is suing Rev. John Watson, former Grass Valley minister, now of Modesto, is expected to go to the jury late today.

The case which opened before Superior Judge James Snell Monday morning is believed by court house attaches to be the longest libel trial in the county's history.

Defense Attorneys Lynn Kelly and Vernon Stoll of Grass Valley are expected to place their last witness on the stand late today and if cross examination is brief, the jury will be given the case by late afternoon.

Mental Hygiene Extension Course for Teachers

An extension course in mental hygiene will be offered teachers of Nevada county under auspices of Sacramento junior college.

The class will commence Monday at 7 p.m. at the Nevada City high school. Dr. Willard Smith is instructor.

TROUT FISHING SEASON TO OPEN HERE ON MAY 27

California's five-man fish and game commission has finished its annual task of setting angling seasons and bag limits after sifting through hundreds of recommendations from individuals, sportsmen's groups, and the division of fish and game.

For more than a million sport fishermen, here are major points of the 1950 angling regulations announced at a public meeting held Saturday, Jan. 28, in Los Angeles:

Trout fishing will open on the Saturday nearest May 30 in Nevada, Mariposa, Alpine, Tuolumne, Calaveras, Amador, El Dorado, Placer, Sierra, Plumas, Del Norte and Lassen counties, and in waters tributary to the Pacific ocean on the coast of Humboldt county.

Saturday nearest May 1 opening has been set for the balance of the state, including Tahoe, Donner, Butt, Pillsbury, and Bucks lakes, Boca reservoir, Big, Stone, Freshwater and Clam Beach lagoons in Humboldt county, and the Pit river and tributaries in Lassen county.

Both general summer trout seasons end Tuesday, Oct. 31. Bag and possession limits remain the same as last year, except for San Francisco's Lake Merced, where anglers may take only two fish a day from the newly stocked waters.

Commissioners modified the present anti-chumming restriction in inland waters to permit the attraction of fish with other than vegetable or mineral matter.

All 1950 angling regulations become effective on Wednesday, March 1. At that time, salt-water anglers will open a year-round pursuit of salmon in the Pacific ocean and all bays except those in the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers east of the Carquinez bridge.

As a conservation move, commissioners okeyed a new possession limit of no more than five yellowtail and barracuda under 28 inches in length. Other ocean game fish bag and size limits remain the same as last year.

With a bag limit of 50, all species of hard-shell, thin-shell, and rock cockles may be taken between Sept. 1 and April 30 in counties north of San Luis Obispo. There is no closed season elsewhere.

A complicated regulation on Washington and big neck clams was clarified to permit possession

LEVITY ROUTED IN COURT BY RABBITS

Courtrooms, normally of routine boredom to reporters and spectators, sometimes provide their items of humor and relaxation from the grim grinding of wheels of justice.

Tuesday, in Judge James Snell's superior court, rabbits—in an abstract way—filled the courtroom with laughter.

Attorney Vernon Stoll of Grass Valley, while questioning Dud G. Poyner, the plaintiff in the Poyner-John Watson libel case, had extracted the information that Poyner raised rabbits in addition to ministering the gospel.

Pursuing the questioning, Stoll asked, "Did you raise the rabbits to sell?"

Frederick Hoar, Bakersfield attorney representing Poyner, brought down the house with, "Naturally he sold the rabbits. If he did not, in six months he would have a housing problem."

Mrs. Mary Warnecke Wins Life Membership Award From Local PTA

Mrs. Mary Warnecke was honored with a life membership to the Parent-Teachers association, and Mrs. Arnold Jackson was re-elected president of the Nevada City elementary PTA at the annual founders day observance and election meeting held at the grammar school last Friday.

Other features of the program were a kindergarten demonstration of "animated nursery rhymes" under the direction of Miss Frances Mason and an address on "Juvenile Protection" by Miss Alice Garret, Sacramento, child welfare consultant for the Department of Social Welfare.

Officers who will serve with Mrs. Jackson are Mrs. Ernest Roberts, first vice president; Lloyd Geist, second vice president; Mrs. C. N. Kerrin, secretary; Mrs. Bernard W. Hummelt, treasurer; Mrs. George Jacobs, auditor, and Mrs. E. G. Bickel, historian.

When Mrs. Warnecke, third grade instructor, was honored with the 1950 life membership it was disclosed she has been associated with the Nevada City system of schools since 1912. She has had the rare distinction of instructing members of three generations in one family. Larry Weiss is now in her class and Mrs. Warnecke taught his mother, Mrs. Helen Payne, Nevada City, in the third and fourth grades and his grandmother, Mrs. Rose Gass, Grass Valley, in the sixth grade.

A native of Nevada City, Mrs. Warnecke is a member of a family which settled here in 1866. After starting her teaching career in 1912 she took time out to rear a family. With her family launched she returned to the classroom in 1926.

The award has been an annual tradition with the elementary PTA since 1944 according to Mrs. Jackson. It is based on outstanding contribution to the youth of the community added Mrs. Jackson and each time life membership is presented the local association places twenty-five dollars in the state PTA scholarship and student loan fund in the name of the honoree. This fund contributed nearly $75,000 to the education of California youth last year.

Last year's life membership was awarded to Miss Gertrude Goyne, who has retired after 52 years of teaching. Others who have received the award include Mrs. Leicester Gregory, Mrs. Mabel Flindt, Mrs. Elza Kilroy, Mrs. Adele Sturtevant and Mrs. Minnie Young.

The association voted to give the school a radio.

The founders day ceremony was under the direction of Mrs. L. R. Evans and mothers of Mrs. Atkins' and Mrs. Smollett's first grades were hostesses for the afternoon.

Bible Subject of Meeting Of Local Civic Club

Mrs. E. Margaret Webb, literature chairman for the Tri-County Federation of Women's clubs, will speak on the Bible at a regular meeting of the Nevada City Women's Civic club at the National hotel Wednesday, 12:30.

Mrs. Byron Brock, president, will preside at the meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leiter is program chairman.

High School PTA Will Observe Founders Day

Fifty-third anniversary of National Congress of Parents and Teachers will be observed this afternoon at an annual Founders day program of the Nevada City High School Parent Teachers association at the high school.

Guest speaker will be Rev. Max Christensen, rector of Trinity Episcopal church. His announced topic is "Religion in a Changing World."

Willard Goerz will be in charge of a musical program.

Nominating committee to select new officers will be named and all past presidents will be honored at the meeting.

Mrs. Hazel Estes will preside.

Mrs. Carl Foote and Mrs. L. G. Lageson will be in charge of tea.

Col. Crockett Reveals Russia to University Women of County

James C. Crockett, retired U. S. army colonel, whose articles appeared recently in The Nugget, gave some startling information on Russian power to members of the American Association of University Women Tuesday evening at the Nevada County Branch's annual fellowship dinner at Seaman's lodge, Pioneer park.

Mrs. Ruth Frantz, president of the Nevada County Branch, presided at the pot-luck dinner attended by one of the largest gatherings of the unit in a long time.

Mrs. Merle Howser, program chairman, introduced Colonel Crockett, who attended with his wife, and daughter, Mrs. Crystal Terry. Col. Crockett is a resident of Cedar Ridge.

Colonel Crockett spent four years in Russia, attached to the U. S. embassy in Moscow. He was provided with special passes to move around the country and had the opportunity to speak to large numbers of Russians.

Russia could place 20,000,000 well trained and equipped men under arms, man 15,000 planes, operate an efficient navy, and rely on thorough and efficient secret police and fight a war with armament equal to any nation.

Col. Crockett said he thought Russian scientists had been at work on the H bomb while we were developing the A bomb.

Colonel Crockett said the Russians have enjoyed great success in their "cold" war and doubted if they would resort to a shooting war. He also said Russians have moved several divisions to the East cape area of Siberia aimed at Alaska.

Col. Crockett said that in the event of war, the U. S. with a strong air force could bring the USSR to its knees by bombing of population centers and not make the mistakes of Napoleon and Hitler of attempting a land invasion.

During an interesting question hour Col. Crockett said he saw no possibility of an agreement between Russia and the western powers on any major point.

Total potato surplus handled by the department of agriculture in 1947 was 133,600,000 bushels.

GRASS VALLEY RESIDENT BURIED AT FOREST VIEW

Funeral services were held at Holmes Funeral Home Tuesday for Mrs. Bessie Belle Ransom, 29, Grass Valley, who died Saturday at the county hospital. Rev. Max L. Christensen, pastor of Trinity Episcopal church, officiated.

She was a native of Oklahoma.

Survivors include her husband, Carl, Grass Valley.

"Soul" is the subject of the Christian Science lesson-sermon for Sunday with the golden text taken from Psalms: "O bless our God, ye people and make the voice of his praise to be heard: which holdeth our soul in life, and suffereth not our feet to be moved" (66:8, 9).

The following citations are among those which will comprise the sermon:

Job: "Oh, that I knew where I might find him! that I might come even to his seat! But he is in one mind, and who can turn him? and what his soul desireth, even that he doeth" (23:3, 13).

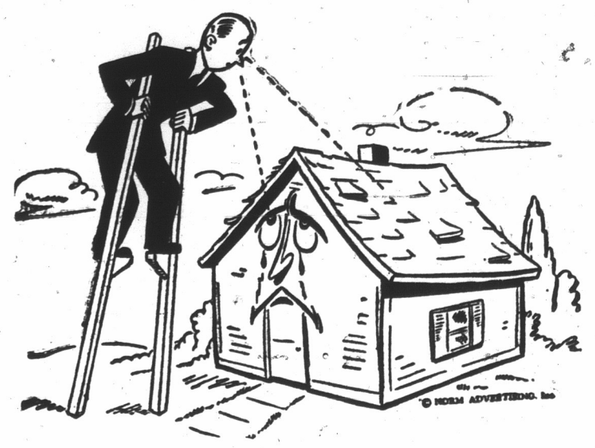

"Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul and Spirit being one, God and Soul are one, and this one never included in a limited mind or a limited body. Because Soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. Soul must be incorporeal to be Spirit, for Spirit is not finite. Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life, as immortality brought to light" (p. 335).

COULD THIS BE TRUE?

A Nevada City man has decided he must borrow money, a decision which most of us have reached at times in our stormy way through life.

The prospective borrower steps into the local bank and we are privileged to overhear the following conversation:

"I want to borrow $500," says our local citizen.

"Do you have any debts at the present time?" Mr. Curnow inquires.

"Yes," says our local citizen, "I owe the bank at this moment about $25,000."

"What is your annual income?"

"I have take-home pay amounting to $3,750 a year."

"Hmmmm," says Mr. Curnow. (Could he be suspicious of the local citizen's ability to pay the old debt without adding another $500?)

But our banker, looking into all circumstances, asks, "Do you think you will be able to save a large portion of your income this year and each succeeding year to reduce your indebtedness?"

"Oh, no," says our prospective borrower. "My necessary living expenses this year will be $4,250. I'll be forced to spend more than I earn."

The incredulous banker breaks in, "Do you mean that owing already an amount that constitutes seven times what you take in during a year, you're going to spend more than you earn?"

"That's right." You see, I must provide tuition at private schools for my children. I must help a poor relative set up a new business in which he's going to lose money for a long time to come."

"Just what kind of business is that relative going to sink your money in?" Mr. C. asks.

"Why, he's got a wonderful humanitarian idea. He's going to sell butter to the Hottentots at a price they can afford to pay."

"But just those things won't eat up your whole income this year, will they?"

"No, but that isn't all. I am building security for my kids by putting price supports under them. My boy sells magazines to the neighbors at a dime apiece, but I give him an extra dime. My daughter makes dresses which she sells for $25 each, but I don't think that's a fair price so I give an extra $5 for each one she sell. And my wife wants television."

By now, we presume Mr. Curnow is flabbergasted. Here's a fellow who owes more than he can ever repay if he lives frugally below his income seeking to borrow still more, and at the same time proclaiming his intention of carrying out fantastic money-spending schemes.

What will Mr. Curnow do? Will he lend the new money?

It's kind of silly to even ask those questions.

The scene is not fiction. It is a localized reproduction of the federal spending program for the next fiscal year. Multiply all figures by millions of dollars and you have the federal budget, plan of government, income and debt.

Would you voluntarily sign the note of the localized profligate? We, as taxpayers, will sign and pay the note and debt of our government.—kww.

MORALS AND ART

Throughout history morality and art are rarely companions.

In our most prominent of the modern arts—the motion picture—the same relation is carried to a high degree.

Some of the foibles and errings of our more notorious actors and actresses are expected and although not condoned are often overlooked.

But even in Hollywood there are persons whom America has come to accept as strong of character and personificatios of all the virtues.

So when Ingrid Bergman, who had become an accepted member of that group of persons with strength of character develops feet of clay, and leaves husband and child to follow a lover halfway around the world and bears his child, it comes as a shock to a great number of star-worshipping admirers.

Regardless of her morals, Ingrid Bergman's artistry as an actress is incomparable and her pictures, generally always works of art, should not be censured, prohibited or banned. The Memphis censor, the Hollywood picture czar and Ingrid Bergman's condemners are only being foolish.—kww.

THE MAN OF THE AGES

Sunday we observe the 141st anniversary of the birth of our greatest American.

The babe whose first cries wailed across the softly rolling hills of a pioneer Kentucky had little to look forward to that forlorn and bitter February day. "White trash" parents and bitter poverty were his lot in that earthen-floored log cabin.

But through sheer greatness of character the child grew up to be our Abraham Lincoln, and the man who kept the nation welded together in its darkest hour of fratricidal strife.

Legendary and factual stories of Lincoln's strength of character are manifold. Historians agree it was Lincoln's character that placed him among the immortals. Very little argument is raised regarding Lincoln's ineptitude as an administrator. Lincoln's relations with Chase and Seward graphically illustrate both traits.

The youth of today can take heart and lesson from Abraham Lincoln. Your destiny, to a degree, can be what you make it. The world has faced a thousand catastrophes and survived. The threat of atomic energy is no more fearsome today than the gathering storm of civil war that faced the young Lincoln.—kww

ONWARD CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS

One of the saddest sights in our Christian civilization is the spectacle of two gentlemen of the cloth feuding.

Nevada county was the scene of such an event this week and we like it not. The theory of Christianity, we believe, is the personification of the golden rule and the brotherhood of man.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder what price glory
To light a simple name,
I Wonder what the cost men pay
For wealth and power and fame
And why through all the ages
False values still obtain.

But a short time since, the question was, will he, or will he not? Soon we had he answer, he willed. He willed to let the scientists create the H bomb and now fear and dread has taken possession of many minds and the era of uncertainty is still farther advanced.

They who know nothing, fear nothing, and so as I know nothing about the building of hydrogen bombs, I do not fear them. In fact, I doubt that one will ever be perfected and if one is, it will probably be of no use when it is. Means of destruction change rapidly in this age and generation and anything which is not now fully available will be out of style by the year 52 and our kind and merciful leaders will be on the track of something else, something, heaven grant that will have an influence for good upon the harried nations.

Speculation about the H bomb will have its little day, then something of more interest will take our attention and the deadly potentials will take their places with things unthinkable.

It is asserted by some that the building of the H bomb will secure lasting peace, the idea being that no nation would dare to employ it in combat with another, but the lessons of the ages contradicts such a theory; from the stone age down to our day of terror man has used every weapon which he has been capable of inventing. It will be the same with the awesome weapons of the present and those which the ingenuity of man may yet create. To have is to use from the big stone club of primordial times to the A bomb of the present. The trend will continue, if we do not exchange it for one less deadily.

There is nothing more insanely stupid than an arms race; a modicum of human intelligence might solve the problems of the present, remove fear of a third world war from the minds of men and women, everywhere and turn the world back to the paths of sanity.

"Were half the power that fills the world with terror,
Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
Given to redeem the human mind from error,
There were no need of arsenals or forts."

The main thing now is to keep cool, to avoid worry and to consider the fact that it is scarcely conceivable that Messrs. Truman and Stalin will ever begin tossing H bombs at each other; an incoming wave of reason, long overdue will replace the harum scarum thinking of the present and sometime, soon, we hope, men everywhere will work for, create and welcome the reign of peace.

"Peace! And no longer from its brazen portals
The blast of war's great organ shakes the skies!
But beautiful as songs of the immortals
The holy melodies of love arise."

For this we pray, for this we work, in the sure faith that the day of peace will sometime dawn upon our distraught world.

ADELINE MERRIAM CONNER.

History owes its excellency more to the writer's manner than to the material of which it is composed.—Goldsmith.

Lookin' Around with "Mac"

FIRST IMPRESSIONS . . .

Free unmelted gold used as a medium of exchange: just chatted with a fellow who showed me a few gravelly pieces of yellow metal which he had received from a debtor in payment of a bill . . . A restaurant man cussing joyously because he was overburdened with "hog dollars," presumably less desirable for handling than paper currency . . . Snow packed so solidly on the north sides of many buildings that a three-day rain failed to melt it away . . . A wide variety of mercantile establishments in both Nevada City and Grass Valley whose streamlined, well-lighted interiors keynote the most modern techniques in merchandising . . . But out on the street you glance upward and see the century-old skyline of another architectural age . . . Much optimistic talk everywhere of the eventual comeback of mining and a genuine faith in new prosperity for the county.

HISTORY TRIUMPHS . . . .

An old cannon brought to Coloma in the 1850s was reportedly stolen from the Coloma school grounds in 1933 but was restored to the community last week. A group of civic-minded people located the relic buried at Loomis. A letter-writer to the Placerville Times concludes with this interesting observation: "On January 29 Byron Bacchi and Raymond Lawyer brought the cannon to Coloma and fired it on the banks of the American river near the community hall. To the best knowledge of anyone in Coloma it had not been fired during the lifetime of anyone living now."

This news bit and numerous conversations with Nevada City residents during the past week impresses me with the consciousness of history in this community. It is fitting that in these centennial years the "birthplace" of California should give special attention to its archives, relics and traditions. And of special interest to most of us, of course, are the authenticated stories of men and events in the robust times of 100 years ago.

It is one of the goals of our publishing enterprise this year to gather as much of the local history in feature stories and pictures as we can and use them in a special edition. Many persons have been doing a fine job in this direction and they have received much encouragement and help from old-timers. But one of the dangers in this field of writing is the temptation to accept any record simply because of its antiquity. It is a well-known fact among historians that newspaper writers of the Mark Twain era allowed their imaginations free rein. To maintain the highest degree of authenticity, only the most acceptable sources should be used. But a good story is a treasure in itself and if identified as such shouldn't be resisted. We've heard some good ones. Too bad they can't be printed.

WARREN SHOULD BE REELECTED

Californians may congratulate themselves that a man of the integrity and ability of Earl Warren should again make himself available to lead our state government. Though many may have disagreed with Warren on some of the major and extremely complex issues with which he has wrestled, none will say he has been lax in office or that he has set personal interests above the interests of his state.

The governorship race will probably feature Warren, the California-bred liberal Republican, and Jimmie Roosevelt, whose chief claim to honor is a vague similarity in voice and looks to a famous father. Warren earned his position in California politics the hard way. He has given us an administration in which we have taken pride during a period of unparalleled expansion and conversion. Jimmie, on the other hand, is fresh from New York state, untried in important governmental responsibility, and guilty of splitting his Democratic support from the day he arrived.

Warren has announced his candidacy for reelection. It is unlikely that any Republican will be hardy enough to oppose him for the nomination of that party. Only extremists in labor ranks and New Dealism will support Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination after studying the remarkable vote-getting record which Warren has established. But Roosevelt cannot be easily discarded. He has substantial financial support and he will lean heavily on the techniques and charm of F.D.R. in his campaign over the state.

My faith is in Warren. I believe the people of California have faith in Warren. My money is on his reelection to the governorship.

BITS AND QUOTES

A sign in front of a marrying justice of the peace in Reno says: "You furnish the bride, we'll do the rest." The Nevada City groom who told us of the sign says, "That's hardly fair."

The world owes us nothing, but we owe it a decent living.

The sad faced man remarked he was earning twice as much money as he is making.

The father who challenged his son's indifference with the question, "Do you know what Abraham Lincoln was doing when he was your age?" got the quick reply, "No, but I know what he was doing when he was your age."

California's future can only be of increasing growth and the approaching census in April should graphically reveal the growth of the past year. California's bumper crop of war babies are beginning to reflect in the school population and in a few short years will add to California's growth when they mature and start families of their own.

"A child who does nothing for others just doesn't mature."—Dr. H. A. Overstreet, Mill Valley psychologist.

TIME IS OF ESSENCE IN SUPERIOR COURT

Judge James Snell inaugurated a streamlining program in Nevada county superior court Tuesday by announcing the court room habituees need not rise when the jurist enters the courtroom except for the initial entry of the day.

Judge Snell stated the custom of rising is being dispensed with in other superior courts of the state and unnecessarily uses two minutes of time a day. Over a period of a year it would total about 340 minutes—almost six hours.

MRS. J. R. HUNTER, FORMER RESIDENT, DIES IN SOUTH

Mrs. Jennie R. White, formerly of Nevada City, passed away in Los Angeles Wednesday, last week, according to word received here by friends.

Jennie R. White came to Nevada City with her parents from Washington when she was two. The White family left Nevada City in 1897. Jennie White entered the University of California in 1889 when she was 16 and was graduated with the class of '93. She taught high school in Marysville and other California cities, and later took advanced work at Columbia University and in Germany, and taught in a college in South Africa for several years.

She married John R. Hunter, a Sweedenborgian minister in Cleveland, who moved to Los Angeles, where he was the minister of Sweedenborgian church there until his death in 1935.

Mrs. Hunter took a trip around the world three years ago, stopping for a visit with her son in the American embassy in Siam.

Mrs. Hunter is survived by a son, Lieut. William H. Hunter, U.S.N., of Los Angeles; sister, Mrs. Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, and a brother, Howard J. White, Berkeley.

GRAND JURY FAVORS DETENTION HOME NEAR COUNTY HOSPITAL SITE

Nevada county grand jury, in an interim report filed Tuesday in superior court recommended the proposed site near the county hospital be given favorable consideration for construction of a detention home.

The report described the present detention of juveniles very unsatisfactory.

A letter attached to the report and signed by Judge James Snell and addressed to the board of supervisors said, "If and when your honorable board shall select this site—if you do select it—approval of the site will be given by me forthwith."

Thomas Barrett, county probation officer, reported there were seven boys on probation Dec. 31, 1949. The report was filed with the report of the grand jury.

During 1949 Barrett made 250 investigations. Five were adoptions and the balance juvenile infractions, the report said.

ROCK SLIDE SMASHES SECTION OF DS FLUME

A 50-foot section of the DS flume was smashed Sunday below Scotts Flat dam by a rockslide, according to Forrest Varney, manager. Maintenance crews are repairing the break, Varney added.

Water supply to Banner mountain reservoir which supplies domestic water to Grass Valley was not curtailed, Varney said. Sufficient water was dropped from Cascade ditch into the DS flume below the break.

Two other crews are working on breaks of the Bowman flume. The breaks occurred during the January blizzard.

Supplies and tools for the Bowman crew were dropped by plane piloted by George Endter. Varney accompanied the pilot on one trip and was afforded a good opportunity to inspect the breaks.

HIGH SCHOOL FINISHES GAME WITH 3 PLAYERS

Lack of manpower lost the big game to Grass Valley Miners for the Nevada City high school Yellowjackets here Friday night in overtime 45-38.

Nevada City led from the start of the game until with two and a-half minutes left in the game the Yellowjackets were reduced to playing with four men after five players had been banished on personal fouls.

Playing shorthanded the local basketballers could not hold the Miners and Chuck Hollmer and Co. ran the count to 33 all and then went out in front on a free throw. With five seconds left in the game and Grass Valley leading 37-35 Henry Anderson tied it up with a field goal to send the game into overtime.

Norman Ellis fouled Hollmer in the opening plays of the overtime and the home talent finished the game with three players.

Douglas Watt's players opened up fast and gained a 13-8 margin at the end of the first quarter and continued to a 23-15 halftime advantage.

The Miners bounced back in the third quarter and closed the gap to 31 to 29.

The fourth quarter was wild and woolly and the hundreds of fans at the game will long remember the eight minutes.

The Yellowjackets lost six men on fouls. The Miners lost two.

In the preliminary game Warren Immel's Bees trounced the Grass Valley Muckers 47 to 37.

The Yellowjackets and Bees travel to Auburn tonight to play the high-flying Placer high. Only an act of God would give the home teams a chance against the league leaders.

The Yellowjackets lost their sixth straight game Tuesday at San Juan being dumped 43 to 19 in the varsity game.

The Bees lost a close one 42 to 39 for their fifth loss against one victory.

24 hour refrigeration for less than 2 cents a day

If you were to pick out one of the "best buys" in your home today, you probably would choose your faithful food-saving, money-saving refrigerator. You keep it stuffed full of snacks of food and, like a saving soul, it keeps meal left-overs savory and fresh for choice nibbling or another meal. On the average, the electricity for this food-saving refrigeration costs you only about 2 cents a day.

Summer Fruits and Berries are flavor-fresh delights for winter meals when stored quick-frozen in a Home Freezer. Wise food shoppers say—a Home Freezer pays for itself with food bargains bought and stored away.

It's a tough and rugged battle against winter's fury to keep your lights bright these days. More than 1000 men work early and late in sub-freezing weather to keep water flowing and to repair the storm-damaged lines.

For the record

Compare the amount of electricity available to customers in the P. G. and E. area with that produced in England under Socialism and in Russia under Communism.

256 — Russia—256 kilowatt hours of ELECTRICITY per capita.

850 — England—850 kilowatt hours of ELECTRICITY per capita.

2400 — P. G. and E.—2460 kilowatt hours of ELECTRICITY per capita.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BLASTED FOR OPPOSING WESTERN UNION AGENCY

Following a heated attack by Sid Alderson, railway express agent, against the Chamber of Commerce for protesting closing of local Western Union office and substituting agency service, the board of directors of the organization voted to recommend to the Western Union company the service be placed under agency operation using the equipment located in the present office.

Alderson asserted he had the agency sewed up with a contract for the past year, said he felt the protesting letter filed with the federal communications commission early in January was aimed at him and was an attempt to keep the agency from being placed in his hands.

When it was revealed that four other applicants have filed for the telegraph agency Alderson said they were "acting like a pack of vultures."

A. A. Abel, representative of the Western Union, conferred with I. C. Bell recently and asked him to have the chamber select an agent and location.

Directors believed it was not the function of the organization to recommend an agent and that the chamber's only interest was in keeping telegraphic facilities here.

He charged the chamber of commerce with "skullduggery" in the concoction of the letter and claimed it was forwarded without approval of 80 percent of the organization's members.

At the January meeting when the proposed letter was discussed the chamber urged retention of the present facilities. One official at that meeting declared that in the light of the poor express service offered prospects of good telegraph service were dim.

William Briggs, George Hansen and Ken Wray were named as a committee to coordinate the activities of the local chamber with Grass Valley and Sierra County Chambers of Commerce.

A two-day dollar days event for Friday and Saturday, Feb. 17 and 18 was endorsed.

Truman Discusses Water Problems

Last week I had a conferesce with President Truman regarding the water problems of the western U. S., in which California is especially concerned. The president is actively aware of California's water problems, Although the major portion of the discussion related to southern California, the general remarks at the conference were sufficient to indicate that the president knows that water is getting short everywhere in California and that it is a serious problem in all parts of the state. There were some general observations made in regard to reclamation projects and that each project must be one of demonstrated financial feasibility.

The discussion indicated that the president will look with caution on bringing more and more lands into production to add to our surpluses of agricultural production already piled up all over the country. However, it was just as clear that he did not regard projects designed to solve California's water shortage as falling in that category. The president indicated an intense interest in getting water for people, but not so much at this stage in getting water for additional agricultural production.

Funds Sought to Halt Duck Losses

Duck hunters throughout California will be pleased to know that substantial progress has been made toward getting a solution of the botulism which is killing thousands of ducks on the lower Klamath. The fish and wildlife service has requested $200,000 a year for three years to do the necessary construction work for better control of the water in the lower Klamath and end the botulism. Budget approval of this item has been secured and last week I appeared before the appropriations committee of the house and urged the favorable action of that committee on this item. My reception by the committee was cordial and interested and I am inclined to believe that the prospects for a favorable House action are good.

This is not only a matter of vital importance to the Tulelake area, which I represent, but to the whole state. Hundreds of hunters from all over northern California annually trek to the Tulelake area to hunt, and have bewailed the plague which has made the lower Klamath a death trap for so many thousands of these splendid birds. Practically all of the waterfowl of the Pacific flyway funnel through the Klamath basin on their annual migrations. It is one of their major stopping places enroute, and it makes this item in the appropriation bill one of interest to all sportsmen in the Pacific coast area, who look to the Pacific flyway for their annual shooting.

TROUT FISHING SEASON WILL OPEN MAY 27

of 10 clams of either species in the state.

The 11-week winter salmon spawning area closure was advanced for two weeks in specified streams of Shasta, Tehama, Glenn and Marin counties, and delayed for 10 days in portions of the San Joaquin, Merced, Tuolumne, Stanislaus and Mokelumne rivers.

Shad may be taken day or night around the calendar with hand dip nets, but night angling has been outlawed.

Fishing for black bass, crappie, Sacramento perch, and sunfish begins on the Saturday nearest May 1 in all counties north of Mono, Madera, Fresno, Kings and San Luis Obispo counties. The warm-water fishing season ends Tuesday, Feb. 28 in northern California. There is no closed season elsewhere or in Clear lake.

During a year-round open season, no more than eight pounds and one catfish dressed, or 15 pounds and one catfish in the aggregate in the round may be possessed. Night angling for catfish is legal in Siskiyou, Shasta, Modoc and Lake counties, and in district 22.

Winter steelhead trout and salmon regulations were only slightly changed from 1949 rulings. There was no change in orders governing the take of abalones, crabs, Pismo, jack-knife, or razor clams, lobsters, scallops, rockfish, grunion, eels or striped bass.

See where a bank in Denver is putting in left-handed checkbooks. They figure their southpaw depositors deserve just as much consideration as the right handers.

Time was when it was believed that left-handed people had no right to exist at all. If a youngster showed signs of using his left hand, his parents were supposed to break him of the habit—to force him to use his right.

But today most doctors will tell you that changing a child's natural left-handed tendency usually causes more harm than good. Stammering and other nervous disorders often get their start that way with children.

From where I sit, if a man wants to use his left hand—that's his business. It's not such a good idea to make anyone do things our way, just because we think it's right. Personally, I think a mellow glass of beer is the finest beverage on earth. If you happen to prefer a Coke—why, go to it! Only leave me the same freedom of choice, won't you?
